

Signature: North-East-South-Center

Feminine/Masculine Balance: 3/3

Feminine numbers are overall tougher, more tenacious, and enduring but they lack the masculine energy of spontaneity. Masculine numbers have an immediate and noticeable effect, but their impact doesn't last long.

Cardinal Points

The North represents the end of the old and the beginning of the new. Numbers in the North bring with them the vibrations that allow you to be heard. They impart charisma, flare, willpower, assertiveness and endurance. They assist in showcasing talents, knowledge and experience to others through you; people will listen to you and they will benefit from your ability to build bridges among them by working with the influences of these numbers. The numbers of the North also enable you to reach your goals, regardless of how difficult the journey. Giving up is not a natural option for you and you tend to see obstacles as a matter of fact of life, nothing else.

Being ahead of your time, your ideas and the projects that inspire you may also be the root of your depression and loneliness as you wait for the world to understand the essence of your vision. You are not a follower by any means. Being a visionary, you find little joy in routine work or where others around you are doing the same work; you run the risk of becoming bored and depressed in such roles. You'll often find a calling in roles that allow you to teach so that you can reach those who are even at the farthest corners of the earth. Although you are able to, you will unlikely find joy in homemaking unless you are simultaneously contributing to someone else's success. In this sense, people with numbers in the North often tend to play leading roles in life but sometimes their work goes completely unseen behind the stage.

You are cautioned that your mind will demand much from you under the influence of the numbers from the North. Unlike others, you thrive on engaging your mind with what you perceive as truth, wisdom, and all that is worthy of study; passive fads don't interest you, and neither do distractions. You won't rest until you find answers, and you will not want to pursue the study of any topic unless you do it from beginning to end. Some may perceive this tendency to gorge on thoroughness and unwavering dedication as unnecessary and will want to hurry you along to get to the next exciting task. You, however, sometimes have a distaste for all things superfluous, unreflective, and distracting and will shy away from people who prefer self-numbing activities that distract them from getting on with their tasks in life.

The number one resonates strongly with the energies of knowledge and communication. People under the influence of this number are often unsatisfied with knowing just the basics; the exploration of truth in its entirety is what drives their ambition. When the numbers of the North appear in repetition, as they do in your case, these numbers' energies are unusually strong and their influence can result in manic depression, where you are high on life one day, and extremely low the next. The remedy: learning to practice patience as an antidote to your impatience with the drudgery of life.

The East reflects the energies of enthusiasm and joy that take root in the developmental stages of new ideas. Having an eight or a three in your personal code imparts you with the gift of intuitive sight; you're able to see through the fake, right through to the genuine and you have an intuitive knack for doing the right thing at the right time. Your ability to read people can be uncanny and you are able to foresee the consequences of decisions through to their conclusions before they're even set in motion. This ability, which comes very hard for those without these numbers in their Codes, comes naturally to you.

People with these numbers also have very special healing abilities. It is not only that you can sift through all the noise of the drama to see right into the heart of an ailment.

You have an organic understanding for the importance of treating the cause, not the symptom. You may have come up against quite a bit of resistance from those representing Western medicine as you tried to explain their misguided observations, but take heart that it is people of the East, like you, who will lead the return of holistic healing. Your gift for empathy and your ability to pursue a goal regardless of how challenging it is are your greatest powers. You're not clouded by the need for instant success and you don't let opposition diminish your sense of purpose.

One of your main challenges is fighting avoidance. You see things so clearly, but somehow prefer to sit back and enjoy the beauty around you without taking action when your intuition guides you to change. This can often lead you to create situations in which you're surprised at unpleasant outcomes, even though all the signs telling you to take action to avoid it. The remedy: exercise your willpower.

The South resonates the liveliness needed to present ideas to others. People with the South represented in their Personal Codes share the qualities of charisma, curiosity and expressiveness. To put it quite simply, you don't have difficulty finding supporters for what you believe in, whether it be research findings, a philosophy or a way of life.

You give others the impression that you're strong, but you may hold an inner fear that you won't be able to fulfill your commitments and make good on your promises. You may have even developed a reputation of not following through on your word, but what people don't see is that this is often due to you taking on more than you can handle. Another inner struggle you face is the feeling that you haven't taken full advantage of your day. This may be a recurring thought you have at night right before you go to sleep.

If you don't exhibit these qualities and you do have the South in your Personal Code, it could be very likely that you were suppressed by a stronger personality as a child, which stunted your personal development. (See the book for suggestions on how to tap into your inner self if this is the case.)

Having the two in your energetic signature makes you more prone to spontaneity than if you were only working with a seven. You approach things in a more determined, less enduring way as well.

The West embodies the organizational qualities inherent in the logistics process of birthing a vision.

The gift of the Center is that of stability. Emotional ups and downs are not part of your experience. You feel compelled to help, to nurture, and to give generously from a place of groundedness and calm. On the surface, there is a contradiction about this energy: you often experience strong homesickness, while at the same time fully knowing that you aren't tied to any one place in this world; you want to travel or even move to new locations as much as you can. People of the center tend to gravitate toward philanthropic organizations or want to work in areas that help them give back to their communities in some other way, particularly if the community is worldwide.

One of the pitfalls of the people of the Center is being happy with helping others or being there for them without paying attention to whether it's actually helping the situation. In other words, you will justify to yourself that the good feeling you get from helping out means that you're doing a good thing, regardless of whether your intentions are beneficial, genuine, or unconditional. In this way, you may run the risk of robbing others of their right to independence and freedom to learn on their own, thus creating material or emotional dependence on you.

The energies of the zero are similar to those of the five, but in addition to your connection with nature and the earth, it integrates a little of all the other Numbers and Cardinal Points and leans more toward the spiritual than the natural senses. Having a double zero in your Personal Code is a big part of what accounts for your strong personality. Your friends know not to interfere with your chosen path; otherwise, they won't stay your friends for very long.

Extremes of the Center...

Extremes of the Center manifest in various ways. An emphasis on moderation in daily life could lead to lethargy and could be a symptom of anxiety or of a lack of direction in life. Being a constant worrier or allowing others to continuously take advantage of you are other manifestations of this extreme. Wastefulness, absentmindedness, or dissatisfaction/impatience with yourself are other signs of an overactive Center. In these cases, avoid surrounding yourself with the color yellow (especially for your bed linens, walls and carpets), which could throw you into a dream state where you're easily distracted and feel uncertain about your direction.

Missing Stations

West: People with no westerly influence in their dates of birth can take solace in knowing that they don't have to struggle with the industriousness and relentlessness that holds such a firm grip on people with a strong influence from this Cardinal Point. If you struggle with learning math, accounting, finance, or any other numbers-based discipline, try wearing more white when you engage in your studies, surround yourself with as few colors other than white as possible, and open yourself up to embracing the energies of this very powerful set of numbers.
