

Signature: North

Feminine/Masculine Balance: 3/3

Feminine numbers are overall tougher, more tenacious, and enduring but they lack the masculine energy of spontaneity. Masculine numbers have an immediate and noticeable effect, but their impact doesn't last long.

Cardinal Points

The North represents the end of the old and the beginning of the new.

The number one resonates strongly with the energies of knowledge and communication. People under the influence of this number are often unsatisfied with knowing just the basics; the exploration of truth in its entirety is what drives their ambition.

The number six vibrates energies that are less inquisitive than the number one. The energy from this number enables you to be satisfied more easily with your accomplishments than if you only had ones in your personal Code.

When the numbers of the North appear in repetition, as they do in your case, these numbers' energies are unusually strong and their influence can result in manic depression, where you are high on life one day, and extremely low the next. The remedy: learning the practice patience as an antidote to your impatience with the drudgery of life.

Northerly Extremes...

Since the influences of the numbers of the North are so prominent in your personal Code, avoid wearing blue and black (the colors associated with these numbers). In particular, try to avoid wearing them above the waist. Also be aware that days that contain a six and/or a one will amplify the influence of these numbers even more. Wearing red and surrounding yourself with this color will help neutralize the extremes of the Northern numbers. In addition, surrounding yourself with people who have sevens and twos in their birth dates will help you find balance.

The East reflects the energies of enthusiasm and joy that take root in the developmental stages of new ideas.

The South resonates the liveliness needed to present ideas to others. People with the South represented in their Personal Codes share the qualities of charisma, curiosity and expressiveness.

The West embodies the organizational qualities inherent in the logistics process of birthing a vision.

Missing Stations

East: You tend to shy away from commotion if you lack the number three in your personal Code. Without the number eight, you tend to overcomplicate things. With an overbalance as well as a lack of a representation of the numbers of the East, you have a tendency not to consider the consequences of the things you say (a lack of empathy).

Aside from surrounding yourself with more of the color green to offset the void, you can also make conscious steps toward developing the gifts that these numbers impart. For example, practice improving your communication skills by listening more carefully in conversations to try to connect with the message between the words of the person speaking; focus on listening to the true message being transmitted rather than just the surface words being said. Another wonderful way to begin balancing your East is to surround yourself with people who have this influence in their Code. The odd thing is that you'll often try very hard to avoid these people because you see them as too emotional and being around them is unpleasant for you because you'd much prefer pretending your emotions didn't exist.

South: People who don't have the numbers of the South represented in their Personal Codes may be difficult to listen to, particular if they're speaking publicly in front of an audience. As a result, they tend to feel misunderstood, unappreciated or simply left out of life. Even if on the outside, you lead a successful life, you'll still carry the fear of not being valued enough by those around you. Surrounding yourself with the color red will draw more energy to you, helping you manifest your ideas more easily and follow through on projects that you'd normally abandon before completion. You may already gravitate toward lively music when you're in need of the Southern influence, but if you haven't tried it yet, listen to energetic tunes when you feel down instead of opting for meditative tracks.

West: People with no westerly influence in their dates of birth can take solace in knowing that they don't have to struggle with the industriousness and relentlessness that holds such a firm grip on people with a strong influence from this Cardinal Point. If you struggle with learning math, accounting, finance, or any other numbers-based discipline, try wearing more white when you engage in your studies, surround yourself with as few colors other than white as possible, and open yourself up to embracing the energies of this very powerful set of numbers.

Center: Activities that promote groundedness will help compensate for a missing influence from the Central Cardinal point. If you don't have a zero or a five in your Personal Code, consider activities that allow you to commune with nature, or meditate for a few minutes each day to reconnect with your personal center. An interesting note to consider is that those with no Central influence who fall under an earth sign (Taurus, Virgo, or Capricorn) have an innate tendency to ground on their own so they may not feel the missing energies of the Center as much as other signs.

In terms of specifically missing one of the two Central numbers in your birth date, missing the five often leads to a lack of assertiveness in everyday life, while lacking a zero can lead to not feeling fully satisfied with yourself and having the compulsion to keep checking that everything was done right (even if you already have proof that it has). This could even manifest as perfectionism in those who turn the affliction into a seemingly marketable trait in their professional lives.

Those of you without a zero may also repeatedly ask yourselves whether you've made the right decisions in life, doubting your choices due to your lack of connection to your center. Meditation will help a great deal in alleviating these doubts, as it will teach you to reconnect with your inner voice—your intuition—and that reconnection will sprout the peaceful sense of knowing that you're on the right path when you follow your inner awareness. Another possible manifestation of this sense of doubt about one's choices in life can be depression, particularly on days when there are no concrete plans set in the calendar. The easiest way to counterbalance this low is to go be with nature to bring the awareness of the present back to you.
